MISSISSIPPI RIVER NATIONAL CEMETERY, NEAR MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE.

This cemetery is located on the Memphis and Ohio railroad at its intersection with the Memphis and Raleigh plank-road, six miles from the city of Memphis, Tennessee.

It contains 38 acres, and is inclosed by a wood picket fence. The arrangement of burials of known dead is by States, the dead of the United States army and navy occupying sections by themselves.

The grounds are neatly laid out with graveled walks and drives. A portion of the cemetery is shaded by forest trees, a large number of which have been left standing; and throughout the cleared portion, and along the borders of the drives, young trees have been extensively planted.

The site for this cemetery was selected by a board of officers consisting of Chaplain Wm. B. Earnshaw, Brevet Lieutenant Colonel A. W. Wills, assistant quartermaster, and Brevet Major G. W. Marshall, assistant quartermaster.

In the center of the monumental site a heavy gunboat mortar has been mounted, and four large-siege guns, mounted upon stone pedestals, have been set as monuments in different portions of the cemetery. A fine flag-staff with shrouds and top-mast has been erected at a conspicuous point near the entrance. A comfortable lodge for the accommodation of the keeper stands near the main gate.

The designation of "Mississippi River National Cemetery" has been applied to this cemetery, in recognition of the fact that by far the largest portion of the burials are of those originally interred at various points on the banks of the Mississippi river from Hickman, Kentucky, to Helena, Arkansas, including New Madrid, Island No. 10, and Fort Pillow.

The whole number interred, as will be seen from the recapitulation, is 13,962, of which 9,754 are white and 4,208 colored. Thirty-two States and organizations are represented, and 537 regiments.

The victims of the Fort Pillow massacre, and those who subsequently died in the occupancy of that fort, have all been removed to this cemetery and buried by themselves in what is called the Fort Pillow section. The total number so removed is 243. Of the 34 known names in this list only three are names of victims of the massacre, and all efforts to obtain a list of the names of others have been thus far unsuccessful.

The post office address of the superintendent of this cemetery is Memphis, Tennessee.

MONUMENT NATIONAL CEMETERY, CHALMETTE, LA.

The Monument National Cemetery is situated at Chalmette, Louisiana, in the parish of St. Bernard, and fronts on the Mississippi river. It is six miles below the city of New Orleans, and one mile below the United States Jackson barracks.

This cemetery contains about thirteen and a half acres of land, which originally belonged to Charles Rixner, from whom it was purchased by the city of New Orleans, in 1861, and ceded by the city to the United States for the purpose to which it has been devoted.

The ground is low and flat, and, like all the region below New Orleans, is protected from the inundations of the Mississippi river by a substantial levee. Although naturally not very picturesque, it has been so improved by the setting out of young cedar, arbor vitæ, and magnolia trees, and by the planting of oleanders, jessamine, and other varieties of shrubs, that it now presents a very beautiful appearance.

It is laid out in a rectangular form, with two long and two short sides. The whole is enclosed on the long sides with a cypress fence, and on the short sides with an iron railing.

The construction of this cemetery was begun by Captain N. S. Constable, assistant quartermaster United States army, in May, 1864. The grounds are laid out with walks and avenues, graded and shelled, and well drained. In the centre a handsome mound has been raised and a flagstaff erected.

The interments made in this cemetery number 12,241; of these the accompanying Roll of Honor contains the record of 9,054, the remainder having been published in Roll of Honor, No. VII. The graves are all marked with suitable headboards properly numbered.

This cemetery is situated upon ground that will ever be memorable in the annals of our country as the scene of General Jackson's greatest triumph—the battle of New Orleans. About 600 yards northwest of the cemetery stands Jackson's Monument, from which the cemetery takes its name.

The associations and memories connected with this hallowed spot render it the most fitting location that could have been selected in the vicinity of New Orleans as a site for a National Cemetery. The ashes of our gallant dead who fell in the defence of the Union during the late rebellion there mingle with those of the brave defenders of 1815.

A neat brick "receiving tomb" has been erected to receive the remains of officers and soldiers who may die in the Gulf States, while awaiting transportation to their northern homes; and a brick lodge has been built for the accommodation of the superintendent, appointed by the War Department to take charge of the cemetery.
